SMITH AND HIGH MAY MEET AGAIN.

Academy Anxious for Another Game and Matter Has Been Laid Before High.

As a result of general dissatisfaction stirred up among the Smith Academy students by the decision in the Smith-High game Thanksgiving Day, giving the game to High School after Smith had kicked a goal from field, another meeting between possible before many days mad not held, but the umpire would listen to nothing.

"All the Smith team and many old Smith players crowded around Captain Eddie Lewis, begging him to take his team off the field, but he held out against them. In the interest of clean sport and fair play the decision should not have been allowed to stand. Comments upon Bland's rulings were frequent in the grand stand througnout the game, and one gentleman, a stranger to both teams, asked why all the rulings went against Smith.

"Eddie Lewis said after the game that whenever he tried to make a protest Bland would put his whistle in his mouth and them to blow it to shut off the protest. Upon being charged with unfair ruling after the game, Bland replied that he had gone by the rules. The rules, however, do not provide that protest shall always be cut off by the referee's whistle."

The communication treats of the matter.

The communication treats of the matter at some length, and concludes with the retremark that interest in football will soon die out unless the spirit of fair play is absolutely maintained. Considering all the circumstances, it is hoped by followers of the interscholastic league that Captain Gray and his team will consent to another meeting with Smith Academy. High has won the championship of the year through a decision, so it has nothing to lose in that respect, while another game would afford the greatest satisfaction to all lovers of football, and would settle the question of supremacy decisively.

Quarter Back Stuttle of the Marion-Sims eleven was the hero of his class at the close of the C. B. C. game, and a bright future is evidently in store for him in a foot-ball way, as he has three years to go at college. An ovation was given him at the close of the game by the class of 1904 and a special yell was made up by his admirers to celebrate the occasion.

Lindsey, Miller and Human, center and guards of the medical team, were also the recipients of many congratulations by their classes. Their work in breaking holes in the opposing line for Todd and the backs to go through was largely responsible for the steady gains of the medical eleven in the game.

Post season games have not been the practice between the schools, but the Smith boys feel that the present circumstance justify them in asking for another meeting. It is the first time that the interscholastic championship has been awarded a team by a decision when another had made a larger acrors in the game, and the Smith boys are some less one of High's touchdowns was made on a fumble by one of Smith's line. Quite a number of important questions will come before the Board of Review at their meeting this month. The evil of laying-up heats has been discussed at length, and the general consensus of opinion that the two-in-three-heat system is the most available remedy for the practice of laying up heats, and it is believed that the governing bodies of the trotting turf will eventually pass a rule sending the nonwinner of a heat in three to the stable.

But another great evil which has come to light is the suppression of time. Minor 63-sociations in every part of the country suppressed time with reckless abandon the past season, and the docket of the Board of Review is burdened with complaints against the officials who permitted, or were parties to such flagrant violations of the rules. One of the most aggravated cases was at Westfield, Mass., where a two weeks' meeting was lately held. It was the closing meeting of the New England racing season, and there was a great hustle for "winter oats," and, likewise, a disposition on the part of every driver to take good care that his horse would go over until next year with no mark that would put him out of safe classes.

The talk of the suppression of the time horse would go over until next year with no mark that would put him out of safe classes.

The talk of the suppression of the time grew so loud that the secretary came to the conclusion that a statement from him was necessary. He very calmly announced that, under a special agreement with Secretary Goucher of the National Trotting Association, three-quarters of a second was allowed to every heat winner who wished it; that he had adhered strictly to this rule, and that investigation would prove that he had not exceeded the allotment of time. Well, that it was a stunner for Secretary Goucher, and he very promptly declared the prepageterous statement as false in every particular. The Westfield secretary has not been heard from since, but he will be asked by Mr. Goucher to prove the outrageous claim before the Board of Review.

An interesting story of Cheballs 2006 is

An interesting story of Chehalls, 2:04%, is told by J. L. McCarthy. He says that Frank Frazler got the colt when 2 years old, but being an absolute novice in the training business he turned him over to a would-be teamster, who all but spoiled him. Seeing how things were going, he brought him home and concluded to try it himself. Chehalls was a natural pacer, and once in a while would show an amazing burst of speed, but he seemed unable to get him balanced.

Frazier tried everything that he could think of without success, in the effort to square him away, and was near giving up system of nicking much study.

WRITTEN FOR THE SUNDAY REPUBLIC.

Mazette (2:94%), the most sensational pacing mare of the season and who divides honors with Lady of the Manor as the fastest pacing n are in the world, was bred in old Tennessee. Unlike most star performers, she has no distinguished pacing blood in her pedigree. The breeders of trotters have always maintained that the way to get trotters was to breed to trotters, and, while that undoubtedly holds good, the frequent cropping out of the pacing gait in the youngsters strictly trotting-bred has always been a source of annoyance to the breeder.

The only strain of pacing blood in the pedigree of Mazette is in the third dam of her sire, Tennessee Wilkes, which was by Million's Copperbottom. This is so remote that it would not naturally control the guit, as the trotting strains are good and should dominate.

Tennessee Wilkes (2:27) is by the great George Wilkes. His dam was Lizzie Hayden, by Peavine, and her second dam was Lizzie Hrinker's Dremnon, Many other sons of George Wilkes are much more

COLDSMITH COES FOR THE DERBY.

Whitney Thinks He Is Better Calculated to Go Route Than Nasturtium.

It is said on the best of authority that John Huggins will return to England again after visiting his friends here and spending Christmas. He is expected to arrive at New York on the Minneapolis either Thursday or Friday in company with John Mackey. It could not be learned positively whether he brings any horses with him, but if not it is absolutely sure that three of Mr. Whitney's horses that raced in England last season will come later. These are Kilmarnock, Elizabeth M. and Elkhorn.

Mr. Huggins has made arrangements to return to Heath House soon after Christmas and train all the horses leased by Mr. Whitney from Lady Meux. It is also very probable that he will take a Derby candidate from this side, either Nasturtium or Goidsmith, as these are the only two in Mr. Whitney's stable that are eligible, cwing to a technicality in the registration of the others.

a technicality in the registration of the others.

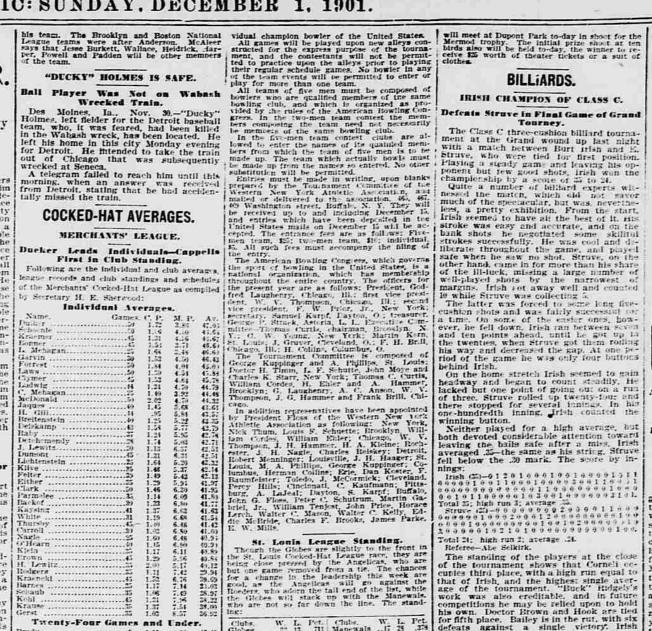

Which of the two star youngsters Husgins will take is not known, but the probabilities are that it will be Goldsmith, if he accepts the advice of his friends who have seen the two perform. The opinion is almost universal among horsemen, that Nasturtium is not as likely to go a Derby route as fast as Goldsmith. That Nasturtium has the foot of Goldsmith for a short distance has been demonstrated, but the buildog tenacity of Goldsmith, shown upon more than one occasion, is very liable to bring about a decision in his favor to carry the Whitney colors in the English classics of 1992.

As regards Kilmarnock, Elizabeth M. and Elikhorn, they are to be shipped back to this country to race. It was first thought that they were returning to be placed on the Rancocas Farm, but from a very reliable source it is gleaned that they will race here next year, and will be trained by John W. Rogers.

Mr. Sydney Paget has been given entire charge of Mr. Whitney's Rancocas estab-lishment. It was he who suggested to the celebrated horse owner that the New Jer-sey farm of the late Mr. Pierre Lorillard sey farm of the late Mr. Pierre Lorillard would be a very suitable place for breeding borses, and the idea was acted upon. It will rest upon the latter's shoulders to watch the outcome of the produce and to govern the breeding according to common sense and the most scientific principles. New York, Nov. 26.—The University of Yale athletes won the individual and team honors in the intercollegiate cross-country championship run, which took place this afternoon over the Morris Park Steeplechase course.

The individual honor was won by D. W. Franchot, and the team honors went to Franchot, Teel, Stevens and Waldron. This quartet finished first, fifth, seventh and ninth respectively, making a total of twenty-two points.

Pennsylvania came next, with 31 points; Cornell made 35, and Princeton was fourth, with 68. Columbia University had four men in the field of twenty-eight runners, but two of the New Yorkers dropped out, Richmond and Inglehart finishing in sixteenth and twenty-second places respectively, so that the New York boys falled to secure a standing as far as the score went.

MUDDY TRACK AT FRISCO. San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 32.—The races at Oakland to-day were run over a muddy track, and fog obscured a view of the last three events. Florenzo was the only real favorite to win during the afternoon, and the books reaped a harvest.

Among the surprises were the victories of Sir Lewis, The Siller and Horton. The Miller beat Rollick, the odds-on favorite, a neck in the six furious race.

The Poet's Dream of Home Makes You Think of America's Great Home-Maker,

Of thy sweet Land of Hope! About his windy eaves there strayed
The winter's sudden blast,
But here were shostly forms arrayed—
Dream Angels of the past.
Into their eyes he looked and sighed
As hungry moments pass;
He said: 'I'm seeing those who died—
As in a looking-glass!"

Dearer than faurels green, or bays,
Or trophies of his art;
Were recollections of old days,
Unto the Peer's heart.
"All, all" he cried, "I'd freely give—
The world—its bitter charms—
Once more in the old Home to live
And rest in mother's arms."

Of all life's teeming memories none are desper than these of Home! Make a Home for your children. See a strong favorite in the Magnolia selling have a chance up to the last furlong, but
